

Acknowledgements of Connection

These may be less familiar in the political context, but candidates and citizens can consider their value in creating a more civil, constructive and durable society.

I value competition and cooperation.

I value individuality and community.

I believe the purpose of an economy is to support the society we choose to create.

I believe we are part of our planet's dense web of life and that its health is our health.

I choose to act out of knowledge, awareness and love, rather than to be driven by fear and misled through ignorance.
